Schoolhouse Commission. The special commission appointed at the last session of Congress to form a general plan of consolidation of the public schools and for the abandonment and sale of such school sites and buildings as they of the school service of the city began its first active work yesterday. The committee is composed of Col. Biddle, the Engineer Commissioner of the District; public schools, and James Knox Taylor, comes within the provisions of an order Supervising Architect of the United States of the Commissioners issued April 17,

The members of the commission are naking a thorough inspection of the schools in the District, and the sites upo which they are located, to determine the dvisability of changing their location. Question of Concentration.

The question that they will have to lecide is the advisability of the present policy of making numerous four and eight very far away from the houses in any ection of the city, or to establish large school buildings, and not build so many of them, but have them centrally located Ir. New York, the Commissioners state, his placing of large school buildings is done. They claim that it does away with the little buildings scattered about the $444444444464644444444 city, and in the end, it is believed, they will be less expensive in many respects. It is expected that the plan of building large schools, centrally located, if deterupon, will cause dissatisfaction mong the citizens, whose children will ave to go a greater distance to attend chool, and may have to resort to the use of street cars if the distance between their bomes and the school buildings is

Scope of Commission Report. According to Commissioner Biddle, the spection of school buildings will take veral weeks, owing to the great number schools and the vast amount of terribry to be covered. Says Bowling Alley Is Nuisance. Harry Kokones, 213 Pennsylvania aveue southeast, in a letter to the Commissloners yesterday, protests against the renewal of a license of a bowling a'ley on Pennsylvania avenue between Second and Third streets southeast, declaring it to be "almost an intolerable nuisance to the neighborhood." Mr. Kokones said that on January 19 he entered a protes and requested a hearing, but that the license was granted without complying with his request. Wants Ammunition Law Amended. The Commissioners will give a hearing about November 20 to F. P. May, a local hardware dealer, who has requested that the police regulations regarding the storing of loaded shells and fixed ammunition be amended. Mr. May contends that ammunition of this character is not dan-gerous in case of fire, as a general explosion cannot occur. The enforcement of the present regulation, he said, en-
